Source: This information was obtained from the Hospital Admission Card data file (1944-1945) created by the Office of the Surgeon General Department of the Army. In 1970 the National Research Council first compiled this for statistical purposes using the EMTs (Emergency Medical Tags) and other Office of the Surgeon General Office Records during WWII.

A white cross-shaped gravestone stands prominently in a cemetery. The stone is made of a light-colored material, possibly marble or granite, and is set on a well-maintained green lawn. In the background, many other similar white crosses are visible, receding into the distance. The lighting suggests a bright day, with shadows cast on the grass.
